Caso di Nataliee

Dear Mr. Prime Minister and Minister of Justice:

ORANJESTAD (AAN): Diamars tabata un dia hopi special pa varios polis unda tur caminda por a mira polisnan trahando den camisa manga largo.

Is there a huge cover-up going on in Aruba regarding the Nataliee Hallway disappearance? I am terribly upset at the recent live news interviews that we have been seeing here in the States regarding the disappearance of Nataliee Hallway. I realize that we are not told "all" the information but only bits and pieces but those bits and pieces are very damaging to the image of Aruba and it's people. This Aruba does not need.

The lack of speed in which this case should have taken in the beginning, the two security guards arrested and detained far longer than they should have while the three boys last seen with Nataliee had a good 10 or so days to "do their thing" and the various latest turn of events, the land-fill being bulldozed back in, leave me, in my opinion, that there is a massive cover up going on. And as I said, it's not fair to the image of Aruba or it's people and those of Nataliee's family.

I was born and raised in Aruba (Seroc Colorado) and have some knowledge of the Dutch law and the way things are handled in Aruba and given the very high competence of the police, it is very suspect that very little seems to have been done in a timely fashion. Most discouraging! I realize Aruba being a foreign country things are not done as they are in the United States BUT that does not excuse the pace for this case. It seems to me that Paul van der Sloot has an awful lot of clout or someone else is hindering the investigation. Again, this is an insult to the Aruba people and the police.

Why after two weeks of digging did the landfill start getting filled back in? Why wasn't there sufficient assistance rendered to that project instead of a private citizen being gracious to pay for and handle the digging at the landfill? I praise Eduardo Mansur for his work! Again, this looks suspiciously like a huge cover-up. The world is watching. I feel extremely sorry for the Hallway/Twitty family, the people of Aruba and I praise all those individuals that stepped forward to either help or offer information. If what Paul van der Sloot told his son, Joran, to keep quiet, no body, no case - Aruba has a big problem. If they are "innocent" then why are they changing their stories countless times, blaming each other and/or just plain hindering the investigation into what happened to Nataliee?

Thank goodness Mrs. Beth Twitty and family have the stamina and desire to try and find out what happened so they can get closure. If it wasn't for them, then my feeling is that the Aruba government, Justice, police and suspects would have gotten away with "murder" because nothing would have been done to solve this mysterious event. As it stands now, that feeling seems to be what is happening and I am very upset for my "home" and the Aruban people.
